MATERIAL	CODE	PROPERTIES
Acetal	A	Acetal is a crystalline thermoplastic polymer material. Characteristically, Acetal has excellent tensile strength, stiffness, surface hardness and chemical resistance. It has excellent flexural memory and property retention when subjected to repeated loading. The normal short-term use temperature is -40°F to +270°F (-40°C to +132°C). Acetal is recommended for high performance applications. Physical properties remain consistent across a wide range of weather conditions.
Nylon	N	Nylon is a thermoplastic polyamide resin. This material maintains good tensile strength, chemical resistance, stiffness and flexural memory. Nylon is excellent in high temperature applications. The normal short-term use temperature range is -40°F to +390°F (-40°C to +199°C). Nylon is however, a hydroscopic resin, therefore, physical properties will vary as the relative humidity changes. When dry, tensile strength is higher and impact is lower. When wet, tensile strength is lower and impact strength is higher.
Polypropylene	P	Polypropylene Webbing is manufactured from a UV stable yarn to minimise fading. This gives the yarn great strength, wear and durability.
Acetal Special Grade (Delrin 500T)	T	Acetal Special Grade is a toughened Acetal which possesses all of the positive attributes of standard Acetal and combines superior resistance to impact loads. Designed to withstand the toughest of environments and excessive treatment, Delrin 500T is recommended for military applications, and personal load carriage in particular.
Flame Retardant Grilon	F	Flame Retardant is a self extinguishing PA6 injection moulding material (a variant of Nylon) which is Halogen and Phosphorous free.

Buckles, Fasteners and associated accessories are generally made from one of two materials, Nylon or Acetal.
